Grandparents Raising And Nurturing Dependent children

Delaware’s Resource Book for Grandparents and Relative Caregivers Raising Children

DELWARE HEALTH AND SOCIAL SERVICES
Division of Services for Aging and Adults with Physical Disabilities
WITH GRATEFUL APPRECIATION

A special thank you to the Delaware Department of Public Instruction (DPI) for its financial contribution to the publication of GRAND, and also for its technical support. The collaboration of DPI in this project demonstrates its conviction to empower Delawareans with the information second-time-around parents need to provide for the future of the children in their care. GRAND would not have been possible without the assistance and cooperation of the Department of Public Instruction and the following:

American Association of Retired Persons
CHILD, Inc.
Children and Families First
Creative Grandparenting
Delaware Health & Social Services
Division of Public Health
Division of Social Services
Delaware Department of Public Instruction —

Dear Friends:

As Governor, I have made strengthening Delaware’s families one of my top priorities. Over the past few decades, the term “family” itself has grown to include a variety of definitions. One type of family that has grown at a rapid rate are those headed by grandparents or other relatives caring for children.

This new publication, Grandparents Raising And Nurturing Dependent Children: Delaware’s Resource Book for Grandparents and Relative Caregivers Raising Children will provide these caring adults with much-needed information on the resources and services available for the children. GRAND will also provide vital information concerning issues like child care, school registration requirements, and immunizations.

Delaware Health and Social Services’ Division of Services for Aging and Adults with Physical Disabilities and other state and private agencies have collaborated in creating this resource book. Grandparents and relative caregivers have also reviewed the information.

I am confident that you will find GRAND to be a useful tool as you face the unique and rewarding challenges of raising children.

Sincerely,

Thomas R. Carper
Governor

INTRODUCTION

The practice of grandparents and relatives caring for children is not new: Throughout our history, when adult parents died, grandparents and relatives stepped forward to raise the children. However, a new picture of this familiar arrangement is emerging. In the last decade the number of children living with grandparents and relatives has increased by 40%.\(^1\)

Their numbers are dramatically rising because of substance abuse, incarceration, HIV/AIDS, mental illness, child abuse or neglect, or joblessness. Grandparents and relatives continue to take in these children, despite the considerable hardship it creates for some.

These second-time-around parents range in ages from 35 to in their 70s. Their average age across the United States is 55.\(^2\) Who are they? Where do they come from? Sylvie Toledo, author of Grandparents as Parents, tells us “Grandparenting [raising children] is color-blind. It is also class-blind.” The tragedies devastating families respect no boundaries.

This resource book is intended to give these caregivers a starting point for identifying resources and how to access them. It is also meant to provide information useful for raising children that the caregiver may not have experienced for a long time, such as registering a child for school or keeping him up-to-date with his immunizations.

The contents page of GRAND lists where to find the general topics, emergency phone numbers, and definitions. Each section has a quick reference at the beginning to let you know which question addresses a particular concern. The index in the back of the book will allow you to find information on the same topic in the different sections, or to locate a particular agency or service.

For ease of reading we have used the term grandparents to include all relative caregivers. To be all-inclusive we have also alternated the use of he and she, child and children throughout.

Delaware Health and Social Services’ Division of Services for Aging and Adults with Physical Disabilities’ intergenerational program, Joining Generations, coordinated the many agencies and services that contributed to GRAND. Joining Generations, the inspiration of Senator Myrna Bair and former Senator Margo Ewing Bane, works across service boundaries to bring various service providers together for the benefit of all ages.

In today’s world, many grandparents are still in the work force. When a grandchild comes to live with them, one of the first concerns is who will take care of the child.

Fortunately there are a wide variety of child care options available, but finding the right care for your grandchild is not always easy.

- Allow plenty of time to make phone calls, check vacancies and visit with prospective providers. (One week minimum)

- Interview at least three different providers, if at all possible, so you can make an informed decision.

- Look for programs where the groups of children are kept small.

- Look for providers who have had child care training, seem knowledgeable about what they are doing, and who display warmth and caring towards children.

- Look for providers who seem responsive to your needs as a grandparent.

- Look for programs that are based on play rather than academics and ones where children have choices. Toys should encourage make-believe play and creativity.

- Look for environments that are safe and healthy and where nutritious food is served.

Keep in mind that you are the one who is in the best position to judge what is best for your grandchild and where your grandchild will feel most comfortable and secure. If you like, you can call the Office of Child Care Licensing to verify that a particular center or family provider is licensed. Call 1-800-822-2236.

1. What different types of child care programs are there?

There are a variety of options available in child care. All child care centers in Delaware must meet certain regulations as required by the Office of Child Care Licensing, which operates in the Delaware Department of Services for Children, Youth, and their Families.

Child Care Providers can be:

Day Care Centers which provide care, education, protection, supervision and guidance for twelve or more children. They must be licensed.

Family Child Care Homes which provide care, education, protection, supervision and guidance in private homes for one to six children. Their own children, grandchildren, nieces or nephews are included in those six. Like Centers, they are required by law to obtain a license, even if they only care for one non-related child. If they are only caring for their own children, grandchildren, nieces or nephews, they are not required to become licensed.
Large Family Child Care Homes are similar to Day Care Centers and must be licensed. They may be licensed to care for up to twelve children as long as two qualified adult caregivers are in attendance.

In-Home Care involves hiring someone to come into your home to care for your children. It is very convenient, but is one of the most expensive forms of child care. There are no state licensing regulations that apply here. You can locate “Nannny Services” in the yellow pages of your phone book.

2. How can I find out which child care centers and family child care providers are in my area?

To obtain names and phone numbers of child care centers and family child care providers in your area call The Family & Workplace Connection:

New Castle County  (302) 479-1660
Kent & Sussex Counties 1-800-660-6602

3. I work and need care for my grandchild before and after school. What sort of programs are there at those times?

Before and after school care programs are specifically arranged for children ages 5 through 12 years. There are a wide variety of programs available that may or may not include school holidays, snow days, or the summer months. Some of the agencies that sponsor these programs are churches, YW/YMCA, school districts, and youth clubs. This care is also available in many child care centers and family child care homes.

You can call area churches, the YW/YMCA, your local school district, or The Family & Workplace Connection for names and phone numbers of programs in your area. You will find the phone numbers for your local school district in the Education section, question 5.

4. I would like my grandchild to attend a summer camp program. How can I locate one?

Many child-oriented agencies arrange summer programs for school age children that involve recreational and special interest programs. These might be operated on a part-day basis or full-day to accommodate children who need all-day supervision. Some camps are also set up for children with special needs. The News Journal lists summer camps once a year. You can also call The Family & Workplace Connection.

5. I work shift work and need child care after 5 PM. Are there any child care centers available at night?

Some child care centers and many family child care homes offer evening and overnight care. The Office of Child Care Licensing requires some specific regulations for this type of care in order to keep children safe and healthy. Call The Family & Workplace Connection for information.
6. I work on weekends. Where can I find child care?
Weekend care is available in some family child care homes and child care centers. To obtain names of providers in your area who care for children on weekends, call The Family & Workplace Connection.

7. I am able to care for my grandchild myself, but sometimes I need to go to the doctor or somewhere it would not be appropriate to take him. Other than family or friends, are there any child care choices in this situation?
Some child care centers and family child care providers offer care for a short period of time or on an occasional basis if they have the room. There are some programs specifically set up for this type of care, often called “drop-in” care or “mother’s day out.” Contact The Family & Workplace Connection in order to get names of providers in your area. Their phone numbers are listed in question 2.

8. What if my grandchild becomes ill? I can’t take off from work. Is there child care available for sick children?
Children who are mildly ill or are recuperating from a long illness or accident may obtain care in a special program established to help meet their medical needs. These programs are licensed by the State of Delaware and include ongoing consultation with the medical community. Children with highly contagious conditions, such as chicken pox or diarrhea, are not permitted in a group setting. St. Francis Hospital Care-A-Lot Program in Wilmington offers such services. The phone number is (302) 421-4485.

9. Are there any health care professionals who can care for my sick grandchild in my home when I cannot take the time off from work to be there?
The following agencies will send trained staff into your home to care for a mildly ill child. Be sure to check daily rates before engaging this service, since this is one of the most expensive forms of child care.

   Visiting Nurse Association - Sniffles & Sneezes
   New Castle County (302) 323-8200
   Kent County (302) 674-7710
   Sussex County (302) 855-9700

   Interim Health Care
   New Castle County (302) 995-6696
   Kent & Sussex Counties (302) 734-3131

10. Is there any place my grandchildren can stay temporarily if I have a personal crisis?
H.O.P.E. HOMES (Healthy Option for Parents on the Edge) is available to parents and caretakers when a family is facing a difficult short-term problem and when “time out” from parental responsibilities can be of help. Some of the reasons for requesting these services are medical emergencies such as hospitalization, financial difficulties or housing problems such as eviction.
Services are available without regard to income. This program serves children up to 12 years of age, at no cost to the parent or caregiver, for up to 30 days per year.

11. My grandchild has a disability that requires special care. How do child care providers deal with children with disabilities?

The Americans with Disabilities Act of 1990 states that child care providers must serve children with disabilities unless it would place an undue burden on their program or seriously change the nature of the program. Children with HIV are considered as having a disability and not an infectious disease. More and more providers are accepting children with special needs as they find that some of the medical conditions are not that difficult to accommodate. However, with a medically fragile child or one with a severe emotional problem, it might be best to contact some of the agencies below for further help in locating child care.

- Parent Information Center (302) 366-0152
  (TTY) 366-0178
- Nurses & Kids
  - New Castle County (302) 323-1118
  - Kent & Sussex Counties - Milford (302) 424-4467
- Easter Seals
  - Kent County - Tech Learning Center (302) 736-6183
  - Sussex County - PACTT (302) 856-3490
- The Wishing Well - Dover (302) 734-3200
  1-800-290-2800

12. Sometimes I need a break caring for my special needs child. Are there any programs that can help?

It is important for you to recognize that you need to have a break in order to do your best. For some families who have a child with a special need, it can become necessary to find child care for a period of several days or over a weekend. This is known as respite care. For more information on this call:

Division of Mental Retardation
- New Castle County (302) 577-4950, extension #234
- Kent & Sussex Counties (302) 934-8031, extension #336
13. I would like for my preschool grandchild to have some educational opportunities. Where can I find out about these types of programs?

Preschools or nursery schools offer children ages 3 - 5 educational, social and developmental activities usually three to four hours a day, two to five days a week. These programs cannot function as child care, since most families need longer hours available to fit their work schedule. Many child care centers do offer preschool type programs within their curriculum of all day care. Many times churches will sponsor or house a preschool program.

For more information on preschools call The Family & Workplace Connection. The phone numbers are listed in question 2.

14. I cannot afford to send my grandchild to preschool. What about Head Start?

Head Start is a federally supported program for children ages 3 to 5 who come from low-income families. It is set up as a part day program, but some sites offer full day care for those families who work. For more information look in the Education section of this directory, question 1.

15. I can’t afford to pay the cost of child care. Is there some way I can get financial assistance?

Some families might qualify for financial assistance (known as Purchase of Care) to help pay for child care if their income level and family size meet certain criteria. To be eligible you will need to show that you need child care and cannot pay for part or all of it. Children may be considered eligible because of special needs of the child such as developmental delays, chronic illnesses, mental or physical handicaps, or if the family is active with the Division of Family Services (Child Protective Services).

Not all child care providers participate in the Purchase of Care program because it pays only a percentage of the full rate. For more information and to see if you qualify call:

Sussex County

16. Is there any way my employer can help with the expense of child care?

Some companies offer dependent care (child care) as part of their Flex Benefit Plan. This is part of your salary set aside by your employer and reimbursed to you as your dependent care expenses occur. The portion set aside is pre-tax dollars. Check with your employer to see if you have a Flex Benefit Plan.

17. Child care is very expensive. Can I claim a tax credit on my federal and state taxes?

You may be eligible for a Child and Dependent Care Credit if you have child care expenses for one or more children under age 13 who live with you. Families of all income levels are eligible. The higher your child care expenses and the lower the amount of your income, the larger your credit. For more information call the Internal Revenue Service at 1-800-829-1040.

18. My granddaughter is expecting a baby. What programs can she participate in to continue her education while carrying her baby?

Pregnant teens and teen parents can get educational help, counseling, and child care through the Delaware Adolescent Program, Inc. Look in the Health section, question 15 for phone numbers.

MOM’s House in Wilmington and Dover offers daycare, parent education, and support services for single parents who are going to school and cannot afford day care.

COUNSELING

Children and young people who come to live with grandparents may be handling a great deal of anxiety and stress. They may feel they are unwanted or that they are the reason for the disruption in their family’s life. They may have been exposed to drug and alcohol abuse, HIV/AIDS, or the imprisonment or death of a parent. As a grandparent you are also dealing with your feelings about your adult child, the parent of your grandchild.

Sometimes these situations require quick and immediate attention for the safety and well-being of all involved. The EMERGENCY PHONE NUMBERS section in the beginning of this book will give you a quick list of phone numbers to call. The information in this section will provide you with some of the places you can call for counseling help or support groups for your grandchild and yourself.

1. What are some of the signs that counseling may be needed?

Some indications that counseling may be needed are:

- Sudden changes in mood or behavior
- Depression - feeling unhappy for a long time
- Anxiety - strong feelings of fear or nervousness
- Losing temper over small things
- Physical aches and pains that have no real physical cause
- Dropping grades

2. My grandchild is very young. Do young children need counseling?

Many adults feel that young children don’t know what conditions such as depression and anxiety are, so they don’t experience it. Even though youngsters may not be able to explain a mental health term, they can and do experience it. Check over the list of signs that may indicate a problem in the previous question. Remember to keep the child’s age in mind.

3. How can I find the right counseling service for my situation?

You can begin by checking the counseling/mental health services at the end of this section. Another good resource is the Counseling section in the yellow pages of your phone book. An agency that offers assessment and consultation will be able to examine the child, tell you what they think the problem is, and recommend where you can take her to receive treatment. They will also recommend individual, family, or group therapy, whichever fits your situation.

4. What are some questions I can ask a mental health professional to determine if they can help in my situation?

Finding the right mental health professional may take several tries. The mental well-being of your grandchild and yourself is important. Here are some questions you can ask:

- What are your qualifications, experience and training?
- What kind of license do you have?
• What is your fee and can you adjust it based on my income?
• Is there a charge for an initial consultation?
• What type of therapy do you use?
• What hours are available for appointments?
• How long must I wait for an appointment?
• What experience do you have in treating my problem?
• How long are therapy sessions?
• How often will appointments be scheduled?
• How can you be reached in an emergency?
• How will my insurance billings and co-payments be handled? When and how do I pay?
• Who will see my records? How confidential is therapy?
• What treatment approach will you take?
• How long will I or my grandchild be in therapy?
• Will you be available by phone outside of appointments?
• Will we set goals for treatment?
• If you feel you are unable to treat my problem, will you make an appropriate referral?

5. What are the different types of mental health professionals?

Mental health professionals can be psychiatrists, psychologists, licensed clinical social workers, licensed professional counselors of mental health, certified mental health counselors, psychiatric nurses, marriage and family therapists, or pastoral counselors. You can find the definitions for these different professionals in the Glossary at the back of this book.

6. What are support groups?

Self-help or support groups are regularly scheduled meetings of people who share a similar problem. There may or may not be a mental health professional directing the group. Self-help or support groups are meant to add to professional counseling, not replace it.

You will find support groups in this section after the counseling and mental health services listing.

7. What does the school counselor do?

School counselors provide educational direction, counseling, and short-term problem intervention for children while they are in school. They assist students with personal and social development, academic development, and career/life planning. At times they work with other school officials, students, and the adult responsible for them in resolving the individual’s problems.

If a student needs more long-term help, the school counselor will refer him to the appropriate agency.
Most public schools have crisis teams to respond when serious situations occur. The crisis team usually consists of the counselor, nurse, administrator, key teachers, and when possible, the school psychologist.

8. What are family crisis therapists?

The Department of Public Instruction and the Department of Services for Children, Youth and Their Families (DSCYF) have family crisis therapists in a number of schools in Delaware. These professionals are employed by DSCYF but work in the school setting with a small number of children. Their role is to help children overcome problems that interfere with their learning. They help families access services provided by DSCYF and other community agencies. The therapists also serve as a link among the family, school, and the community. At this time there are 14 family crisis therapists serving 16 schools.

EDUCATION FOR CAREGIVERS AND CHILDREN

Education is an extremely important part of all our lives, particularly for children. Children begin learning as soon as they are born. It is very important that as a caregiver you are aware that meaningful learning takes place long before formal education begins.

Parenting classes can help you understand how to nurture your child as he grows, preparing him for formal, classroom education. The parent education and support guide following question 19 in this section will provide you with information about different parenting education opportunities.

By law, children between the ages of 5 and 16 are required to attend school. The following information will give you what you need to make the best choice for your grandchild.

1. Young children need a lot to prepare for school. My finances are limited. How can I help my grandchild get used to being with other children and get ready to succeed in school?

Head Start is a federally funded program that helps children three to five get ready for kindergarten. Children learn how to interact with other children and some educational basics. A child must be toilet-trained to attend Head Start. Services such as transportation, health, nutrition, social services, meals and parent involvement opportunities are provided. You must be income eligible for your grandchild to participate. There are often waiting lists, so register at least the summer before your grandchild is eligible to begin. You must register at the Head Start in the county where you live. Each county has specific qualifications.

These are some of the documents you may be required to bring with you to register:
1. grandchild’s birth certificate
2. grandchild’s social security card
3. grandparent’s social security card
4. proof of income
5. legal custody papers
6. immunization papers (if possible)
   If there are no immunization papers, you must bring a card that proves you have a doctor’s appointment scheduled and dentist’s appointment scheduled
7. Medicaid card

New Castle County: 452-1500

City of Wilmington: 762-8038

Kent County: 736-3281

Sussex County:
First State Community Action Agency, Inc.: 856-7761 (covers Clarksville, Coverdale Crossroads, Dagsboro, Frankford, Georgetown, Laurel, Lewes, Millsboro, Milltown, Selbyville)
2. What are other options for a pre-school program?

There are pre-school programs that operate for a few hours two or three days a week. These programs focus mainly on educational readiness. The majority of day care programs offer an education component as well as socialization. Check the child care section for what to look for in a child care center. You may be eligible for financial assistance for child care and pre-school. See financial assistance, question 21, and child care, question 15. Call The Family & Workplace Connection for licensed programs in your area.

   New Castle County   (302) 479-1660
   Kent & Sussex Counties  1-800-660-6602

3. How can I tell if my grandchild is ready for kindergarten?

   If you are concerned about your grandchild’s development, the Child Development Watch program can tell you how your grandchild compares with other children her age if she is between the ages of birth to three. If she is over three she can be evaluated through the Child Find Program or your family doctor. Look in Health, question 4, for more information and phone numbers.

   There are child development charts at the end of the Health section. You can refer to the charts to check how your child is developing compared to others the same age. Do not become alarmed if your child is not exactly performing or developing as the chart says. Every individual grows and develops at their own rate. If you do not understand some of the terms used or are concerned that your child is not performing several activities for his age group or is several months behind, consult your doctor.

4. What must I bring when I register my grandchild for public school?

   The documents required for all public schools in Delaware are:

   1. proof of custody
   2. birth certificate of the grandchild
   3. proof of residence - if the grandparent and the grandchild live with someone who does not have legal custody over the grandchild, a notarized letter of proof of residence from the person they live with is necessary.
      - examples of proof of residence: electric bill, phone bill, lease, rental agreement
   4. immunization records

5. Where can I call to get information on the public schools in Delaware?

   The phone number for the Department of Public Instruction in Dover is (302) 739-4604. You can call that number if you are not sure which school district you live in. If you know your school district, you can call that office directly. The District office numbers are listed below. They will tell you in which school to register your child, and also answer any questions.
6. If my grandchild is transferring school districts in order to live with me, how can I have the necessary records sent to the new school?

If your grandchild is transferring schools, you must give the new school the name of the former school. The new school will obtain your grandchild’s records.

7. I would prefer my grandchild attend a school other than the one the school district office tells me he is assigned to. Is this possible?

In Delaware there is a program called Choice Schools. You can choose to have your grandchild attend another school in your district or in another district. The school districts must approve, and you must provide your own transportation. For more information, call the State Superintendent of Schools’ office in Dover at (302) 739-4661.

8. I understand there are publicly funded schools that are run by private organizations in Delaware. What are these Charter schools and how can I find out about them?

Charter schools are schools that are paid for by public funds but are run by private organizations. Some of the Charter schools emphasize particular subjects such as math and science. Others may focus on children with particular problems. You can find out more about Charter schools by call
9. My granddaughter is pregnant. Is there somewhere other than the public schools where she can continue her education and receive special support?

The Delaware Adolescent Program, Inc. (DAPI) is a program for pregnant teenagers including education in all regular academic subjects, daycare, parent training, counseling for teens and their families, and health and prenatal education.

(302) 652-3445 Wilmington
(302) 697-0356 Dover
(302) 856-7331 Georgetown

10. If I want to register my grandchild into private school, where can I find out which private schools are in my area?

The private schools are listed in the blue pages of your telephone book under Schools - Private with the corresponding phone numbers. You may want to call to inquire about scholarships and financial assistance.

11. What are technical or vocational schools and how can my grandchild apply?

Vocational or technical high schools are for 9th to 12th graders. They give students the academic and technical career skills needed for college and career. Students graduate with an academic diploma, technical skills, and in many cases, job experience. These special schools are open for high school age students only and require the student to apply for admission.

14. What is the Parallel Program?

Delaware Technical & Community College and the University of Delaware operate a Parallel Program on the Owens, Terry, and Wilmington Campuses. The Parallel Program is a liberal arts program for students interested in certain areas of study. It consists of University courses taught by University faculty. By completing 60 credit hours of instruction in their area of concentration, a University of Delaware Associate Degree is awarded. Qualified students may transfer to the University to continue their studies and acquire a Bachelor’s degree. Application is made through the University of Delaware Admissions Office.

15. Where can my grandchild find out about colleges not in Delaware?

Start with the school counselor. There is a guide in all public libraries called Peterson’s Guide to Four-Year Colleges. This is a complete guide to all colleges in the United States. The guide contains:

- state-by-state table of vital statistics (i.e. ACT scores, SAT scores necessary for admission, enrollment statistics, degrees offered)
- lists of majors
- profiles of each college (including background, enrollment, faculty size, admission and graduation requirements, expenses, finance, special programs, career services, housing, campus life, student services, sports)

This guide is very helpful and informative when searching for colleges.

16. My grandson who is not in high school would like to obtain a GED or high school diploma. Where can he get help?

Help is available to persons who want to obtain a high school diploma or GED at the James H. Groves Adult High School listed in question 17. Information about enrolling in:

- basic skills classes for those with skills below the eighth grade level,
- GED test preparation classes, and
- adult high school courses leading to a high school diploma are available by calling one of the listed numbers.

17. Where are the James H. Groves Adult High Schools located?

James H. Groves Adult High Schools are at the following locations:

- Marshallton  994-4079
- Middletown  378-5037
- Newark  454-2251
- Wilmington  651-2709
- Woodside  697-3257
- Georgetown  856-9035

Call the school nearest you for information on GED, high school diplomas for adults, and adult basic education.
18. Are there any programs for people who speak English as a second language?

22. I think my grandchild has a special need and/or a developmental delay. What should I do?

The sooner you recognize and question what seems to you to be delay in your grandchild’s physical growth and/or development, the sooner she can begin to receive help. Question 3 in this Education section talks about the Child Development Watch program for children from birth to three years of age. The Child Find Program evaluates children three and older. The Health section, question 4 has more information on these programs. Your family doctor or pediatrician can help you identify any potential problems.

The Delaware Early Childhood Center can also evaluate your child, ages 3 to 5, to see if he has a developmental delay or disability. Their phone numbers are: New Castle County - 323-5370, Kent County - 739-4707, and Sussex County - 398-8945 or 856-5909.

There are many services available for children with developmental delays and disabilities. You can request a copy of the Directory of Services for Young Children with Special Needs from the Parent Information Center (366-0152 or TTY 366-0178) or the Child Development Watch program. The phone numbers for the Child Development Watch program are: New Castle County 1-800-671-0050, Kent County 1-800-752-9393, and Sussex County 1-800-752-9393.

The Division of Services for Aging and Adults with Physical Disabilities produces the Guide to Services for People With Disabilities in Delaware. To find out where you can pick up a copy, call 577-4791 in New Castle County, or 422-1386 in Milford for Kent and Sussex Counties. The toll-free number is 1-800-223-9074.

23. My school-age grandchild has a special need and/or a developmental delay. What kind of services are there for her?

Once a child is identified as having a special need and/or a developmental delay and the Department of Public Instruction verifies the condition, the school district becomes responsible for meeting those needs. Each school district has a staff person who handles special education. You can find out who that is by calling your school district. The numbers are in question 5 of this section.

School districts are required to test children and put together an educational and health plan that will meet the needs of each child in their district. This service is free. Each child is entitled to a free appropriate public education whether it is in a regular public school program or a special program, even if the child is not yet school age.

Therapies that may be required such as speech/language, occupational, or physical will be provided. In cases of prolonged illness or extended disability, such as the result of a car accident, arrangements will be made to provide for educational needs in the home.

24. What happens when it’s time for my special need and/or developmentally delayed grandchild to go to kindergarten?

Once a child is identified as having a special need and/or developmental delay, the school district will develop an Individualized Education Program (IEP) for your grandchild. The IEP will include written statements of:

1) the student’s present level of education performance, including areas of need;
2) annual goals and short term instructional objectives;
3) specific special education and related services to be provided to the student, including physical education and vocational education, which are specially designed to meet the unique needs of a student with disability;
4) the extent to which the student will be able to participate in regular education program;
5) the projected dates for initiation of services and the anticipated duration of the services;
6) appropriate objective criteria and evaluation procedures and schedules for determining, on at least an annual basis, whether the short-term instructional objectives are being achieved;
7) whether or not it is necessary to place the student who is transported from school by bus into the charge of a parent or other authorized responsible person;
8) disciplinary procedure or limitations, as appropriate;
9) determination as to the participation of the student in the Interim Assessment Program; (a temporary, trial program before the child is moved into a formal program); and
10) statement relative to the Transitional Services Plan, as appropriate. Transitional Services Plan refers to those times when a student is moving from school to work, or completing school and moving from the family home to a new setting such as their own apartment or a group home in the community.

You will be notified no less than ten working days prior to any meeting to change or evaluate your grandchild’s Individualized Education Program so that you can attend. You may bring someone with you to the meeting. The Parent Information Center (366-0152) can offer you advice and find an advocate or another parent to accompany you if you wish.

25. What is the American Association of Retired Persons (AARP) Grandparent Information Center?

The AARP Grandparent Information Center has been in operation since 1992. The Center works in partnership with The Brookdale Foundation Group to provide assistance to grandparent-headed families. Besides supplying information and referral, the Center works with state, local and regional organizations to expand and improve services for grandparent-headed families.

The Grandparent Information Center also publishes a newsletter and the information packets listed below. You can call them or write to order up to ten copies free.

26. Are there books I can read to learn more about being a parent to my grandchild?

The AARP Grandparent Information Center recommends the following books and publications:

A study of 14 grandparents caring for their grandchildren and the effects on the grandparents.

Comprehensive service guide of the national, regional, and local coalitions for grandparent caregivers. Also includes related organizations, periodicals, articles and other resources.

Commentary based on personal experiences and interviews of grandparents. Covers interesting suggestions and advice on how to deal with single parenting in the 90's. Comments are supported with Bible passages and a personal “Grace Principle.”

Deals with problems of grandparents cast in a non-traditional role of raising grandchildren. Addresses issues of rights, personal, emotional, and spiritual resources, and re-parenting.

Examines the needs of the grandparents and children in their new relationship and offers insight on how to work on concrete problems. Walks the reader through various assistance programs, explaining what should happen, what will really happen, and how to work through the system.

Grandparents Raising Grandchildren: A Guide to Finding Help and Hope. The Brookdale Foundation Group. Written for grandparents who have taken on the challenge of raising their grandchildren. This book discusses the needs of grandchildren, the problems of the parents, and the legal and social issues confronting the grandparents. To receive a copy send $3.00 for mailing and handling to: The National Foster Parent Association, 9 Dartmoor Drive, Crystal Lake, IL 60014, or call (815) 455-2527.

Covers civil legal issues of grandparent and caregivers, including custody options, guardianship, dependency, and public benefits issues.

Manual designed to aid lawyers and legal advocates, grandparents and relatives caring for children whose parents are incarcerated, institutionalized, in treatment programs, or otherwise unavailable. Developed for distribution in the Los Angeles/San Diego area.

Provides an in-depth look at how our existing public benefit programs help or fail. The perspective of the grandparent caregiver is foremost in the reporting of the effectiveness of public benefits. The personal responsibility of the grandparents is demonstrated for policy makers, public officials, and benefit reform leaders.

A humorous account of a 73-year-old grandmother raising her three teenage grandchildren.

27. Are there websites on the World Wide Web that have helpful information?

Here are two web sites you may wish to investigate:

Financial Assistance/State and Federal

Taking care of a grandchild can be very expensive. There are several state and federal programs that support dependent children. Caring for your grandchild does not mean you have the responsibility to support them financially. That is the obligation of the biological or adoptive parents. As a grandparent you will need to be informed about available programs and how you can take advantage of them. This information should help you get started.

1. Caring for my grandchildren has really placed a heavy financial burden on me. Since their parents are responsible for them financially, how can I get them to support them?

You can file an application for child support with the Division of Child Support Services Enforcement (DCSE). Anyone who is taking care of a child can file. You do not need any documents to prove you are the primary caretaker. You can pick up an application at any of the Family Courts (see Legal, question 22 for locations), or at the Division of Child Support Services Enforcement office in your county.

- New Castle County - University Plaza, Newark (302) 369-2135
- Kent County - Carroll’s Plaza, Dover (302) 739-4578
- Sussex County - No. 9 Academy St., Georgetown (302) 856-5586

Child Support Services Enforcement will locate the parents. Through Family Court they will establish paternity and court orders for medical (health insurance) and financial child support. The Division also enforces the court rulings. The child support arrangement is changed as the circumstances change.

2. What is Temporary Assistance for Needy Families? (TANF)

TANF provides cash assistance for the basic needs of children who are not under both parents’ care and support. Some of those needs could be for food, clothing, and rent. The purpose of TANF is to support children in their own home or in the home of relatives.

Children in financial need, as well as the relative with whom they live, may be eligible for cash assistance if they meet financial eligibility requirements.

A grandparent who is applying for TANF for the child fills out the application form as the child would complete it. Unless you are applying for TANF with your grandchild or you have adopted your grandchild, your income does not count. For example, if the question is “Do you own a home?” the answer is no - the child does not own a home.

3. What is Medicaid?

Medicaid is medical health insurance the state provides to people who are financially eligible and not covered under other programs. Delaware’s Medicaid is a Managed Care system (MCS), which means you must use doctors that are members of the Managed Care Organization. Eligibility for TANF and SSI automatically means you are eligible for Medicaid.

4. What is Supplemental Security Income (SSI)?

SSI is a program that pays monthly benefits to people with low incomes and limited assets who are 65 or older, blind, or disabled. Children can qualify if their parents have limited income and resources or if they meet Social Security’s definition of disability and if the income and assets are within the eligibility limits.

SSI is meant to bring a person’s income up to a certain level. The level varies from one state to another. Check with your local Social Security office for more information. You can find the addresses and phone numbers for the Social Security offices in question 10.

5. I could especially use help to feed my grandchild. Are there any programs that help with groceries?

Food Stamps are coupons that help low-income families buy a variety of foods that fit basic needs for good nutrition. Eligibility is based on who lives and eats together, as well as relationships in the home, income, and resources. If your household is eligible, you will receive an authorization form which you take to the bank to exchange for food stamps. The food stamps may be used at stores to purchase food, but cannot be used for diapers, toilet paper, tobacco, alcohol, or pet food.

Check question 7 in this section for the State Service Center that would handle your case.

6. What programs can I apply to for financial help in caring for my grandchild?

A grandparent caring for a grandchild can apply for Temporary Aid for Needy Families (TANF), Medicaid, and Food Stamps. Following question 7 is a list of the State Service Centers located throughout the state. Not all Centers have all services. The letter F means that Food Stamp, Temporary Aid to Needy Families, and General Assistance applications are handled at that State Service Center. The letter M refers to Medicaid services. Long term care (LTC) refers to nursing home and home and community based services for those in danger of institutionalization. Numbers following each listing refer to the zip codes served by that center.

7. How do I get an application and what do I need?

Start out by calling the State Service Center and speaking to an intake worker. You may have the application mailed to you or you may be required to make an appointment. You will be able to apply for TANF, Medicaid, and Food Stamps by completing one application on which you check a box for each service. You will need the following information for the application:

1. Some form of picture identification (driver’s license or identification card from Motor Vehicle for non-drivers).
2. Birth certificates for each person on the application. If you cannot get the original certificate, you can request a copy from the Bureau of Vital Statistics. You may be able to use another proof of age or identity.

Offices of Vital Statistics:
- New Castle County: 995-8586
- Kent County: 739-4721
- Sussex County: 856-5495

3. Social Security cards for each member of the family. Apply at Social Security office.
   Social Security information - 323-0304 or 1-800-772-1213 TTY 800-325-0778
   There is no charge for a social security number.
4. Bills (rent, utility, medical, etc.).
5. Some proof of residence such as a lease or utility bill.
6. Pay stubs if working or proof of other kinds of income.
7. Bank statements.
8. Car registration if applicable.
9. Proof of your tie to the child (the parent’s birth certificate, along with the child’s birth certificate, can establish relationship).
11. Proof of the child’s citizenship or immigration status if applicable.
12. Grandparents’ marriage license, death certificate, or divorce papers may be requested.

8. Are there any other circumstances under which my grandchild could be eligible for Medicaid?

If your income is too high for cash assistance but still low enough, your grandchild may be eligible for Medicaid coverage without cash assistance. Call the State Service Center that handles Medicaid in your county. Check in this section, question 7, for the name, address, and telephone number of the State Service Center that would handle your application.

9. Can children be eligible for Medicare?

Medicare is a federal health insurance program for people 65 or older, and for people who have been getting Social Security disability benefits for two years. Children, even those with disabilities, do not get Social Security disability benefits until they turn 18. No child can get Medicare coverage until he or she is 20 years old.

The only exception is children with chronic renal disease who need a kidney transplant or maintenance dialysis. Children in such a situation can get Medicare if a parent is getting Social Security or has worked enough to be covered by Social Security.

In order to collect retirement benefits, a person born before 1934 would have to have 40 quarters of employment covered by Social Security, which is ten years.

To qualify for disability benefits, the applicant must have 20 quarters of employment covered by Social Security, which is five years. The person must have worked those five years no more than ten years ago when making their application.

Other criteria also apply.
10. Where are the Social Security offices in Delaware?

The toll free number for Social Security information in Delaware is 1-800-772-1213. The nationwide toll free TTY number for Social Security is 1-800-325-0778.

It is easiest to get through by telephone to Social Security later in the month.

11. Can a grandparent or relative caregiver apply for Social Security or Supplemental Security Income for the child they are caring for based on their own employment record?

No. The only adult who can apply for Social Security benefits or Supplemental Security Income for a child is the parent. The only exception is when the child is adopted by that caregiver, which means parental rights have been terminated.

12. What are the requirements for a child’s disability to be eligible for SSI?

Before a child under 18 can be considered for SSI, the parents’ income and assets must be checked to be sure of income eligibility. This process is called deeming.

The child must have a physical or mental condition or conditions that can be medically proven and which result in marked (extreme) and severe functional limitations. The condition must last or be expected to last at least 12 months or be expected to result in death. The child may not be considered disabled if he is working at a job that Social Security considers substantial work. Generally, a job that pays $500 or more per month is considered substantial.

13. Are children with HIV eligible for Social Security disability?

A child infected with HIV may be eligible for Social Security disability benefits if they have signs and symptoms that indicate an impairment that affects their ability to participate in activities expected of children of their age. Check with the Social Security office.
14. What happens to a child who is disabled once she reaches her eighteenth birthday?

When a child with a qualifying disability turns 18, Social Security no longer considers a parent’s income and assets in determining eligibility. A child who was not eligible for SSI before the age of 18 because a parent’s income was too high may become eligible at 18. If a child with a disability who is getting SSI turns 18, continues to live with her parent, but does not pay for food or shelter, a lower payment rate may apply.

15. Can children receive Social Security benefits?

Children under the age of 18 may collect Social Security benefits on the record of a parent who is collecting retirement or disability benefits from Social Security. They may collect survivors benefits payable to children under 18 on the record of a parent who has died. They are eligible because they are dependent children of the person receiving the benefits.

16. Are there any Social Security benefits for adults disabled since childhood?

When a child reaches 18, or 19 if the child is a full-time student, Social Security benefits on the record of a parent collecting retirement, disability benefits, or survivor benefits normally stop. If the child’s disability began prior to age 22, those benefits can continue to be paid into adulthood.

17. Are there any other programs that could provide cash assistance?

General Assistance (GA) is a state-funded program designed to provide cash assistance to low-income people who do not qualify for federally funded programs such as Supplemental Security Income (SSI). The general assistance population includes children who are not deprived of parental care or support, children who live with non-relatives and unemployable adults.

Check question 7 in this section for the State Service Center that would handle your case.

18. My grandchild’s health is being affected by his diet. How can I get help?

The Women, Infants, and Children program (WIC) can help with nutrition needs for children up to age 5. To find the office nearest you, call 1-800-222-2189. Check under Health, Question 7, for more detailed information.

19. As a relative is there any way I can take care of my grandchild through the Foster Care program?

Relatives can apply to become foster parents for a grandchild. Relatives providing at home caregiving are supplying Kinship Care. Look in the Legal section, question 5 for more information.
20. I need to get a job to support my grandchild. Where can I get help finding employment?

You can find information about employment and employment training in the Education section, question 20.

21. I need to work to care for my grandchild, but I can’t afford child care. Is there any program to help with child care expenses?

The Division of Social Services Purchase of Care program can pay for all or part of licensed child care expenses for eligible families. To be eligible you will need to show that you need child care and cannot pay for part or all of it. Children may be considered eligible because of special needs of the child such as developmental delays, chronic illnesses, mental or physical disabilities, or if the family is active with the Division of Family Services.

You can apply at the Division of Social Services’ Child Care Unit at:
New Castle County: Northeast State Service Center - Wilmington - 577-3233
    Hudson State Service Center - Newark - 368-6770
    Fourth Street Office - Wilmington - 577-3649
Kent County: Carroll Plaza Location - Dover - 739-6920
Sussex County: Georgetown State Service Center - Georgetown - 856-5569

22. Are there any funds available for emergency situations?

People who receive TANF, General Assistance, Medicaid or SSI may receive up to $200.00 to meet an emergency need. Payments may be made in only one period of 30 consecutive days in any twelve consecutive months. Funds are also available for emergency shelter. Check the State Service Center list in question 7 for the Center nearest you. Call first to verify that you are in the right zip code for that Center.

23. Is there any way I can get emergency assistance with food or clothing in my community?

Often there are organizations that work to assist the needy in their own community, such as churches. Contact the State Service Center for your area (question 7 of this section). They can direct you to any resources in your community. You could also call the Delaware HelpLine at 1-800-464-4357. The HelpLine can also direct you to resources in emergency situations if it is available in your area.

The Ministry of Caring in Wilmington is another possible resource for help in obtaining clothing and food. The Ministry can direct you to food resources in your area. You can also receive a hot meal at one of the Ministry’s dining rooms. Call the Ministry of Caring at 594-9476 for more information.

24. My bills for home heating are more then I can afford, especially with taking care of my grandchild. Is there any help?

The Delaware Energy Assistance Program (DEAP) helps low-income families meet the cost of home energy. DEAP services include: fuel assistance, weatherization, oil furnace repairs, and energy conservation education. You must prove you are financially eligible. Documents you will need are:

1) Social Security cards of all household members 5 years and older;
2) Documents such as W-2 forms, statements of wages, check stubs of all household members, income from Social Security, Welfare benefits, or other sources must be shown;
3) A current utility bill with the applicant’s name on it;
4) A copy of the applicant’s rental lease if heat is included in the rent; and
5) Documents that indicate the total number of household members younger than 18 years.

You can apply for DEAP at the Catholic Charities office in your county.

SEE QUESTION NUMBER:
Health Services

Health care is a very important part of anyone’s life, especially a young person such as your grandchild. It is extremely important for the child to have consistent medical care. Very young children from birth to five years of age must be seen frequently by a doctor to be sure they are on target with their growth and development. Older children should have an annual checkup for the same reason. Problems discovered early can be treated easier and more quickly. Be concerned about yourself and get your checkups too!

1. I know health care is very important, but I am worried about how to pay. My health insurance tells me which doctor I can see (Managed Care). What can I do?

If your grandchild’s parents are employed and have health insurance through their workplace, they are required to put the child on their policy. If the parents do not have health insurance, you need to find out if you can put the child on your health insurance program. If your grandchild is eligible, be sure to follow the rules such as when seeing a doctor, getting referrals for services, and using the emergency room. If your insurance is a managed care type or if you are enrolled in the Diamond State Health Plan (managed care for Medicaid recipients) you must use doctors enrolled with your company and follow the rules. Otherwise the bills can be denied and you will be responsible for payment.

If you have a private managed care type of insurance and Delaware Medicaid you must follow the rules of your private insurance company in order for Medicaid to pay any co-payments or deductibles, or to receive payment in full for allowable services.

2. Are there any ways besides using Medicaid and my private family doctor that can help me stretch my medical dollars?

There are clinics throughout Delaware that can help you and your grandchild. Some are privately operated by the duPont Hospital for Children while others are operated through the Division of Public Health.

The duPont Hospital for Children (Nemours Clinics) provides health care to children up to 18 years old. Fees are based on ability to pay, according to a sliding scale. Services include well-child check-ups, shots, and sick child care. They can also refer children if care is needed from a specialist or in a hospital.

duPont Hospital for Children clinics are located at:

3. My grandchild is in high school. Is there any way the school can provide health care?

School Based Wellness Centers provide services to students enrolled in particular high schools statewide during regular school hours. Students must have a consent form, signed by their parent or guardian, in order to receive services. Services provided vary by site but may include any or all of the following basic services:

- crisis intervention
- health and nutrition education
- immunizations
- individual, family, group counseling
- nutrition and weight management
- outreach to at-risk youth
- physical and sports exams
- treatment for injuries

4. How can I find out if my grandchild is growing like other children his or her age?

A measure of how your grandchild compares with other children his age (a developmental evaluation) can be scheduled if the child is between the ages of birth to three at one of the following places:

1) New Castle County: Child Development Watch - Wilmington 428-6200
2) Kent and Sussex County: Child Development Watch - Milford 422-1335

A developmental evaluation can be obtained if the child is over three through the school districts’ administrative offices (Education, questions 3 & 22) Child Find Program or at any time through your family doctor on a fee for service basis. If you have added your grandchild to your health insurance, call your member services representative to see which service providers your company contracts with. All children in Delaware are tested by the Child Find Program before being accepted into kindergarten.

If your grandchild is five years old or younger, you can obtain the Growing Together Portfolio by calling (302) 577-4636. The Portfolio is given to all mothers when a child is born. It contains very helpful information for knowing what a child should be able to do at different ages.

You can also refer to the child development chart at the end of this Health section. The chart gives you some general ideas of the physical and mental growth you should see in your child at a particular age. The Family Issues section tells about how the child relates to the main caregiver, the family, and others at different stages. The Health and Growth section tells you about feeding the child and what physical growth to expect. The Body and Mind section describes activities a child should be able to do at certain ages and how the child thinks. Do not become alarmed if your child is not performing or developing exactly as the chart says. Every individual grows and develops at their own rate. If you do not understand some of the terms used or are concerned that your child is not performing several activities for his age group or is several months behind, consult your doctor.

5. Where can I go to get immunizations for my grandchild? What immunizations are required and when?

Immunizations are very important in keeping children healthy. Children from birth to five should have regular check-ups at which these immunizations are given. If your grandchild has a doctor he goes to regularly, they will have the records and know what is required. If the child does not have a regular doctor and you do not know what shots he has had, you can contact the Immunization Hotline at 1-800-282-8672 to see if the State has a record. You will need proof of immunization to enroll your grandchild in school. You can find an immunization chart which will tell you what immunizations are needed and when at the end of this section. If there is no regular doctor or you cannot afford the immunization, you can attend a clinic.

It is to your advantage to call the clinic to verify services and hours. Even though they are walk-in clinics, sometimes services change. Walk-in immunization clinics are held at the following centers:

NEW CASTLE COUNTY:
DeLaWarr State Service Center - New Castle; every Tuesday 8:00 to 11:00 AM 577-2973
Hudson State Service Center - Newark; every Wednesday 4:00 to 7:00 PM 368-6840
Middletown Clinic - Middletown; every Wednesday, & Friday 8:00 to 10:00 AM 378-5200
West End Neighborhood House - Wilmington; every Wednesday 8:00 to 11:00 AM 658-4171

KENT COUNTY/SUSSEX COUNTIES:
Call your State Service Center to make an appointment. The locations and phone numbers can be found in Financial Assistance, question 7.

6. How can I get dental services for my grandchild?

If you have private insurance and your grandchild is covered, you need to contact the Member Services department. They can let you know if this is a covered service and the list of dentists in that company’s network of doctors.

If you have Medicaid, the Division of Public Health provides dental services for recipients up to age 21. You will need to call to make an appointment. Be sure to take and show your child’s Medicaid card.

The Division of Public Health’s dental clinics are in the following locations:

New Castle County
Porter State Service Center 577-3404 Wilmington
Hudson State Service Center 368-6840 Newark
Belvedere State Service Center 995-8585 Wilmington
DeLaWarr State Service Center 577-2973 New Castle

Kent County
Milford State Service Center 422-1372 Milford
Williams State Service Center 739-4755 Dover

Sussex County
Georgetown State Service Center 856-5240 Georgetown
Shipley State Service Center 628-2009 Seaford
7. What is the Women, Infants and Children (WIC) Nutrition program and where can I find out about this nutrition service for my grandchild?

The Women, Infants, and Children (WIC) program is for children up to age five whose health can be improved by a more nutritious diet. You can get specific nutritional items for your child if you are income eligible. If you receive Food Stamps or Medicaid you are automatically eligible. You will need to call the WIC office in New Castle County at 995-8684, or Kent and Sussex Counties at 1-800-262-3030 for an appointment.

8. What do I do if my grandchild needs a hospital?

If the child can’t breathe, is unconscious or unresponsive, call 911 (see Emergency Phone Numbers Section). When a hospital stay can be planned, work with your family doctor. You will need a referral.

Milford Memorial Hospital, Clarke Ave, Milford, 19963
Nanticoke Memorial Hospital, 801 Middleford Road, Seaford, 19973

OUT OF STATE FACILITIES:

If you have a managed care type of private insurance, or you are enrolled in the Diamond State Health Plan (managed care for Medicaid recipients), you must follow the rules of your managed care organization in order to have bills for out of state services paid.

If you have “fee for service” Medicaid coverage only and receive medical services at a hospital in Pennsylvania, Maryland, New Jersey or Washington, D.C., and that facility is enrolled in the Delaware Medicaid program, bills for those services can be paid. It is advisable to contact the facility before receiving services to make sure that they are enrolled and are accepting Medicaid payments. If they are not enrolled or will not accept Medicaid payment for the services provided, you can be held responsible for payment.
If you are unsure of the type of coverage that your grandchild has, you should contact your insurance company before receiving services.

9. My grandchild needs a lot of medical attention. What can I do to keep him at home and not in a hospital?

Home health services are services that are necessary to maintain or aid a patient within the home, usually following inpatient hospital treatment or to avoid hospitalization. These services must be approved and prescribed by your doctor. Services may be provided by a visiting nurse association, home health agency or other organization as approved by your insurance carrier. The agency providing the services must be enrolled with your insurance company or Delaware Medicaid as it applies to your situation. Home health services may include nursing care (skilled and aide services), and therapies such as physical, speech and occupational. (See the Glossary for the definitions of different therapies.) Nursing and aide services are defined below.

Skilled Nursing Services: Services are provided on a regular part time basis or as often as the doctor orders. Services are provided by a Registered Nurse. The doctor must write a prescription order for the care and services to be provided. The doctor decides what level of nursing care should be provided and how frequently. Examples of skilled nursing services are:

- administer and care for IV’s
- care for feeding tubes, tracheotomy suction
- applying dressing involving prescribed medications and sterile techniques
- teaching patient and caregivers nursing techniques
- intramuscular, intravenous and subcutaneous (beneath the skin) injections

Home Health Aide: Services are provided under the direct supervision of a skilled professional. Examples of services provided by a home health aide are:

- assist in personal care as bathing, shampooing hair, oral hygiene
- feeding
- assist with bowel and bladder training
- maintain a clean, safe environment
- cannot give medications

10. What in-home services does the Division of Public Health provide?

The public health community services team offers in-home maternal, child, and family health education, as well as family support. Some examples of education and support include:

a) Evaluating the needs of pregnant women and those of her family
b) Providing prenatal education to meet those needs
c) Assessing the physical, social, and mental health of infants and children
d) Providing growth and developmental screenings for infants and children
e) Providing parent education to emphasize the importance of routine and preventive medical care
f) Coordinate services with public and private agencies
11. What in-home pediatric/adolescent nursing services are provided by a home health agency?

Some examples of home health nursing services for children birth through age 18 include:

a) Observing and evaluating client’s condition, both physical and emotional
b) Providing direct care in administering treatments, medications, and rehabilitation exercises
c) Assisting client and family toward developing positive coping behavior
d) Teaching client and family to give treatments and medications when indicated
e) Teaching client and family to carry out doctor’s orders
f) Reporting to the doctor any new signs and changes in the condition the client is being treated for and arranging for adjustments in medical treatment as needed
g) Assisting client and family to find and obtain resources that will help client reach his highest possible level of self care and living

12. The doctor and I agree that my grandchild needs to be in a whole new place for a while to get the emotional help she needs. Where is a safe place she can stay and get psychiatric help?

Sometimes the best place for any of us to get help when the problem is emotional or mental is at an in-patient psychiatric facility. Below are the names of the hospitals and private agencies that have programs where the patient lives at their facility for a limited time and receives psychiatric help. Unless it is an emergency, be sure to first contact your health insurance provider before contacting the facility. If it is an emergency where the child is experiencing an emotional problem and is showing behavior that could put him at serious and immediate risk of injury to self or others, call the Division of Child Mental Health Services Crisis Service Team.

17. I am very concerned about my grandchild being able to make good choices and act responsibly regarding sexual activity. Are there any programs that offer assistance in these areas?

The Boys and Girls Clubs of Delaware offers the Smart Moves program to assist young people in resisting alcohol, tobacco, other drugs and premature sexual activity. The program is available to club members between ages 6 and 15. Check your telephone book under Boys and Girls Clubs of Delaware for your closest club with a program. The Boys and Girls Club of Western Sussex County supplements their Smart Moves program with Keep Smart, a program designed to involve parents in pregnancy prevention education.

The Cooperative Extension offers the Growing Up Female program for girls in grades 5 through 7. The program educates girls about human sexuality and seeks to increase communication and decision-making skills. Call 831-8965 for more information.

Girls Incorporated of Delaware offers the Preventing Adolescent Pregnancy (PAP) program. Age-appropriate programs provide girls with information, support and motivation to help them avoid pregnancy. Call 798-8610 for information.
Hilltop Lutheran Neighborhood Center, Inc., provides educational and recreational activities for youth ages 9-16, including field trips, academic assistance and an eight to ten week workshop series on pregnancy prevention. Call 656-3670 for information.

Planned Parenthood of Delaware has a peer outreach program called Teen Talk. Adolescents 13-18 from New Castle County can receive training in sexual health, self-esteem, assertiveness, effective communication and health decision-making. Call 655-7296, extensions 38, 39, or 40.

18. Where can my granddaughter/grandson learn more about parenting?

Many classes are offered which can help. Check in Education, question 19.
Recommended Childhood Immunization Schedule

UNITED STATES, JANUARY - DECEMBER 1997

Vaccines are listed under the routinely recommended age. Bars indicate range of acceptable ages for vaccination. Shaded bars indicate catch-up vaccination: at 11-12 years of age, Hepatitis B vaccine should be administered to children not previously vaccinated, and Varicella Virus vaccine should be administered to unvaccinated children who lack a reliable history of chickenpox.

It is important for you to know what your legal rights are regarding your grandchild or another minor relative. Under Delaware law a grandparent may ask the court to allow visitation with his or her grandchild when the parents will not allow visitation. The court will consider whether it is in the best interest of the child to visit with the grandparent. In certain cases, if you are not a grandparent but another relative who has cared for a child as the custodian or legal guardian, you may also have the right to visitation after the child has been returned to the parents.

You should also be aware that you have the right to petition the court for custody of your grandchild if you believe that the child is neglected or abused by his or her parents. The court will not remove custody from a parent as long as the parent can provide adequate care. However, if a parent cannot provide adequate care and it is in the child’s best interest, the court may award custody to a grandparent or other relative. In some cases where a grandparent has been a caregiver for a long time, the grandparent may ask the court to allow him or her to adopt their grandchild and become the child’s parent.

The main principle guiding the law regarding children is for the children to remain with the parents as long as the parents can provide adequate care. The courts are reluctant to terminate parental rights unless there is “clear and convincing evidence” that there are grounds to terminate the parents’ rights and it is in the best interest of the child to do that. The best interest of the child, it is presumed, is to remain with the parents and to preserve the family. These are important facts you will need to keep in mind if you become involved in the legal system, since you may be required to work towards family reunification.

The main legal issue for grandparents and relative caregivers usually is how to protect and care for the child. There are many different ways to accomplish these goals, each with different degrees of control and consequences.

QUESTIONS ABOUT CUSTODY AND GUARDIANSHIP

1. What does having custody of a minor child mean?

   Having custody of a child under the age of 18 (a minor) means that you have control and responsibility for that child. The degree of control and responsibility depends on the kind of custody you have.

2. Why should I be concerned about custody?

   The person who has legal custody of a child has the right to make medical, educational, health, and welfare needs decisions for the child. Without legal custody you cannot register a child for school, approve medical care, or apply for some government aid programs.

3. What is legal custody?

   A person with legal custody is legally responsible for the safety and care for a child under the age of 18 through a court order or parent’s consent. Legal custody is what the parents of a child have naturally in the eyes of the law. If you are not a parent of a child, legal custody of a child can be obtained by court order. When you have legal custody, you have the same rights and responsibilities as a parent has — the responsibility to care for and support the child and the right to make decisions for the child about school, health, activities, church, discipline, home environment and other things.

4. What is informal placement?

Most caregivers have an informal placement arrangement, which is between the caregiver and the parents. Caregivers have no rights in this situation. They have physical custody, which is the responsibility of the day-to-day care of the child. Parents keep legal custody, which means they can remove the child from your home at any time.

5. What is Kinship care and does it exist in Delaware?

Kinship care is any form of at home caregiving provided to children by relatives (kin). It may be permanent or temporary, full- or part-time, initiated by family agreement or under the supervision of a child welfare agency. Kinship care includes kinship foster care and private kinship care. In Delaware, relatives who are interested in providing for children who are in the custody of the Division of Family Services have two options:

- They can apply to become a foster parent for that child. If approved, the relative caretaker would be eligible to receive foster care payments and Medicaid for the child. The relative caretaker would be required to adhere to all of the Delacare Regulations for child care including but not limited to supervision, criminal background checks, ongoing training and other requirements of foster parents.

- Relative caretakers can apply for legal custody of the child. They can also contact their local State Service Center to apply for TANF (Temporary Assistance for Needy Families). (State Service Centers are found in Financial Assistance, q. 7. TANF information is also in Financial Assistance, q. 2).

6. How can I obtain custody of my grandchild?

Basically, there are two ways to obtain custody. One is by calling the Division of Family Services to report the abuse or neglect of your grandchild and asking for placement if the child is removed from the home. The second is by filing a dependency/neglect petition for custody with the Family Court and proving that the child is neglected or abused. You must also prove that you are an appropriate placement.

The Division of Family Services investigates all reports of abuse or neglect. If the investigation shows that the allegations are true, the Division files a petition in Family Court for legal custody of the child. A hearing will be scheduled, but notice of the hearing will only go to the petitioner (the Division) and respondents (the parents or whomever the allegations are against), if they are different from the natural parents of the child.
The grandparent must contact the Division of Family Services 1-800-292-9582 and let the social worker handling the case know that the grandparent may be able to serve as a placement for the child if the child is removed from the parents’ custody. Family Court will not be able to give any information about the case because state law provides that all proceedings in Family Court are private and the Court does not give information to anyone but the people named on the petition, who in most cases are the parents.

At the hearing, one of three things will happen:
- Grandparents or relatives are awarded custody
- Division of Family Services receives custody
- Parents keep custody

7. What is the Division of Family Services’ policy on confidentiality?

Confidentiality is a highly complex subject. The Division has ethical, professional, and legal obligation to protect clients from undue intrusion of privacy. The Division’s policy is to permit the appropriate use and disclosure of essential oral and written information when sharing is professionally judged to be in the best interests of the child in its care, and when there is a legitimate need and right to know.

Parents and guardians have the right to examine information held about them in the Division’s records within established limitations. Contact your child’s caseworker for additional information.

8. Going through the Division of Family Services with allegations of child abuse and neglect can take a long time. I am concerned the children are going to be harmed in the meantime. What can I do?

You can file a petition for custody in Family Court, saying you think that the children are being neglected or abused. At the same time that the petition is filed, you may file an affidavit requesting priority scheduling due to the risk of irreparable harm to the children if a hearing is not held immediately. A judge of the Family Court will decide whether the circumstances you present in the affidavit show that an immediate hearing is necessary. You will need to provide detailed facts showing irreparable harm if an immediate hearing is not granted. You should keep a written record of all events of abuse and neglect to support your charges so that it will be factual and documented. (See q. 19 for help on filing the petition and affidavit.)

A $40 filing fee is required, or affidavits may be submitted to verify why the fee should be waived. The Intake Unit may be able to help with the affidavits (q. 19).

If the priority scheduling hearing is held, you will be notified of the time and date a Family Court Master or Judge will hear the case. The Master or Judge will determine whether the children are neglected or abused and if you should receive legal custody of the child.

9. What are the visitation rights of parents and relative caregivers if a child is in the custody of the Division of Family Services?

For children in the custody of the Division of Family Services, parents who no longer have legal custody still have certain responsibilities such as visitation and financial support which may or may not be specified by the court. Visitation may be structured, time limited, supervised by the Division, unsupervised, day visits, etc., depending on the age of the child, safety, etc. Relative caretakers can petition the Family Court of Delaware for visitation rights at any time or contact the child’s caseworker at the Division to request visitation privileges with a child in foster care.

10. Do the parents and the other grandparents have visitation rights if the children are in my legal custody?

They may have the right to visit the child; however, as the legal caregiver for the child you have the right to make decisions about what is best for the child. If you feel visitation is not wise, you may deny visitation. However, the parents or other grandparents have the right to petition Family Court for visitation. The Court will then decide if there should be visitation or not and under what conditions visitation will occur. If you oppose visitation, you need to go to court and testify about the reasons why you oppose it.

If the parents or grandparents have been charged with a crime involving harm to the child, it is likely that there will be a criminal no-contact order in place and visitation may not be ordered in that situation.

A $40 filing fee is required, or affidavits may be submitted to verify why the fee should be waived. The Intake Unit may be able to help with the affidavits. See q. 19 of this section for more information on the Intake Unit.

11. I am concerned about my safety and the safety of my grandchild when his parents visit. Is there somewhere I can take the child for a safe, supervised visit?

There are Visitation Centers, one in Newark and one in Milford. If the Court orders supervised visitation, it may take place at one of these centers for 1 to 2 hours at a time. The Centers can also be used to transfer children if the adults do not wish to come into contact with each other. The Centers are available whether you have a court order or not, but there is a waiting list.

Visitation Centers:
- Milford State Service Center - Operated by Families in Transition - (302) 422-8058
- Hudson State Service Center (Newark) - Operated by CHILD, Inc. - (302) 762-8989

If you believe that you or your grandchild need a restraining order because of violence or the threat of violence by a parent, you may file a petition in Family Court for a Protection from Abuse Order or PFA Order. This is a restraining order that is available to family members where there is domestic violence. You may file a petition for yourself and/or on behalf of your grandchild. Once you file a petition, a hearing will be scheduled within 30 days. If the Family Court decides that there is domestic violence, it may order that the parents have no contact with the child or you, or may only allow supervised visitation. A PFA Order lasts up to a year, but may be extended for good cause for another six months.

You will need to testify in court about the allegations of abuse. You should document everything that happens that you believe is domestic violence against you or your grandchild and what injuries or other effects happened.
12. What if my youngster is a pregnant or parenting teen?

When a minor mother in Division of Family Services’ care and custody gives birth, the child may remain with the minor parent in foster care placement if the caseworker determines that the minor mother’s age, maturity, level of demonstrated responsibility, and willingness to care for the child do not place the child at risk. These situations are on a case by case basis and monitored by the Division social worker and foster care provider.

13. What happens if my granddaughter is not under the custody of the Division of Family Services (DFS)?

If your granddaughter is not under DFS custody and is pregnant and you do not feel you can continue to care for her during her pregnancy, you may be able to send her to a residential program for pregnant teens and women such as the Bayard House in Wilmington. Bayard House (654-1184) is a private agency that provides residential services to pregnant teens and women. While staying there, the women must attend parenting and independent living skills classes. They must also attend school or work and obtain counseling. The fees are on a sliding scale basis. Before the child is born, the mother must have housing and other arrangements ready.

Delaware Adolescent Program, Inc. (DAPI), is an alternative school program for pregnant girls 12 to 19, although they have had some younger. The choice to attend is the student’s. The student remains in the program until there is a convenient break point such as mid-year or the start of the new school year. The student, teachers, counselors and social workers decide together when it is best to return to the regular school system.

DAPI
- Wilmington (302) 652-3445
- Dover (302) 697-0356
- Georgetown (302) 856-7331

14. What is the financial responsibility of parents after a grandparent obtains legal custody?

The law of Delaware provides that both parents are equally responsible to support their minor children. This responsibility does not change even if the children are removed from the parents’ custody and placed with the State or a relative. If you have custody of your grandchild, you can file a petition for child support against the parents in the Family Court and obtain an order. (See the child support information in Financial Assistance, q. 1).

If you adopt your grandchild, the parents no longer have any responsibility to care for or support the child.

15. What is guardianship?

Guardianship is a form of legal custody of a minor. If you become the guardian of a minor child, you have the same rights and responsibilities as if you had been given legal custody. Sometimes it is important to be named the guardian of your grandchild because Delaware law provides that in order for a child to attend public school, his parent or legal guardian must be a resident of that school district. If you are not a legal guardian, you may not be able to enroll your grandchild in public school in the district where you live, even if you have legal custody.

Usually, a grandparent or other relative will seek guardianship when the child is not abused or neglected but when the parents are moving away during the child’s last year of high school and the child wants to remain here to finish school. Another example is when the parents and child are not getting along and the grandparent agrees to have the child live with him or her until their differences are ironed out.

Guardianship is obtained by filing a petition for guardianship in the Family Court. If an order is needed quickly due to the school year beginning, it may be wise to file an affidavit requesting priority scheduling with your petition. There are filing fees involved.

QUESTIONS ABOUT ADOPTION

16. What is adoption?

Adoption gives you the same parental rights as a natural parent. You have the full legal and financial responsibility for parenting the child. The relationship is permanent. Parental rights must be terminated before an adoption can take place.

When filing for adoption, you will have to prove your adult child is incapable of parenting or harmful to the child (unless both parents consent to the adoption). Everything about you and your family will be closely examined in court. It is a long and possibly expensive court process. With adoption you may lose your eligibility for welfare benefits.

17. If the Division of Family Services has legal custody, how does that affect the adoption process?

When a child is removed from his family because the child is at risk, the Division will diligently work with the family to reduce the risk so the child may return to his home as quickly as possible. When this does not happen in a timely manner, the goal may be changed to “termination of parental rights” for the purpose of adoption. This may be initiated whenever it appears to be in the child’s best interest and one or more of the grounds for termination of parental rights exist. There will be a hearing in Family Court to either voluntarily or involuntarily terminate parental rights, thus freeing the child for adoption. Make sure the Division knows who you are, your relationship to the child, and your desire to adopt.

18. How do I begin the adoption process?

Once you decide to adopt, you must file a petition to terminate the parents’ rights and a petition to adopt in the Family Court. The Family Court has a packet of information and forms on how to file for termination of parental rights and adoption. You can obtain this by going to Family Court and asking for it or by calling the Family Court courthouse in your county. The phone numbers are listed in question 22. You can pay an attorney to do the filing for you if you can afford it.

If the parents agree to the termination of their rights, they may sign a consent form to be attached to the petition for termination of parental rights. If they do not agree, a hearing will be scheduled. on the petition. As the petitioner, you personally will have the responsibility to prove that one or more of the grounds for termination of parental rights exist and that termination is in the best interests of the child. You can also pay an attorney to represent you.

If the Family Court decides that the parents’ rights should be terminated, it will then consider the petition for adoption. However, before the adoption petition can be decided, there must be a home study done by a licensed adoption agency. The home study must approve your home as an adoptive home in order for the Court to grant your petition for adoption. The adoption agency will charge a fee for the home study, but most have a sliding scale based on your income.

If the Division of Family Services has legal custody of the child, you must pursue a different course of action and may still need an attorney. Contact the Division of Family Services Adoption/Permanency Program Manager at (302) 633-2655.

QUESTIONS RELATED TO THE LEGAL PROCESS

19. Do I need a lawyer to get custody or to adopt my grandchild?

No, many people who are unable to afford a lawyer represent themselves in Family Court. As long as you are able to tell the Court the reasons why you believe your grandchildren are neglected and why you should be given custody, you will be able to represent yourself. Remember that it is important to be prepared. The Court makes its decision based on facts. It is important that you show the Court facts that support your request, such as dates when something happened, documents that verify a fact, or a witness who saw something that relates to the issue of neglect or abuse that the Court is being asked to make a decision about. If you think you may not remember everything, write it down. Refer to your own record of events that show abuse or neglect.

Family Court has an Intake Unit available on a first come, first serve basis to assist anyone with determining what exactly the problem is and the proper petition or paper to file with the Court to ask for an order. If you need help in getting started, the Intake staff can probably assist. The staff of the Intake Unit are not lawyers and cannot give you legal advice. They are there to provide information about the Court and what kind of help is available though the Court.

20. How can I find a lawyer to represent me?

If you would like a lawyer to represent you but don’t know which one to call, you can call the Delaware State Bar Association’s Lawyer Referral Hotline at 658-5279 or 1-800-773-0606. They will recommend several lawyers. You can have a half-hour consultation with one of the lawyers for a $25.00 fee.

21. I cannot afford a lawyer’s fees. Is there anywhere I can call for help?

Community Legal Aid or Delaware Volunteer Legal Services may be able to provide you with a lawyer without charge.

22. What are the addresses and phone numbers for Family Court?

Family Court of Delaware:
900 N. King Street 400 Court Street 22 The Circle
Wilmington, DE 19801 Dover, DE 19901 Georgetown, DE 19956
(302) 577-2200 (302) 739-6500 (302) 856-5601

23. What is the Family Medical Leave Act?

The Family Medical Leave Act (FMLA) allows up to 12 weeks of unpaid leave within a 12 month period, job protection, and continued health-care coverage to workers under certain conditions. Some of the conditions are that the person must have completed at least one year or 1,250 hours of employment. Their employer must have at least 50 employees.

FMLA applies to caring for newborn or adopted children within 12 months of birth or adoption, coping with serious illness of family members, or inability to perform one’s job because of serious health problems. Grandparents and relatives caring for children can apply under FMLA for time off to make the childcare arrangements necessary as new caregivers.

If the FMLA applies to you in your situation, your employer must reinstate you to the same or equivalent position you held before taking leave.

The Family Medical Leave Act is regulated by the U. S. Department of Labor. You can call them at 1-800-959-3652 for more information.
GLOSSARY / DEFINITIONS

Acquired immune deficiency syndrome (AIDS) - a disorder caused by the human immuno-deficiency virus (HIV). HIV is not AIDS. Symptoms in children include damaged immune system, constant infections, poor growth, and possibly brain disease resulting in developmental delays.

Affidavit - a written statement of fact about something that is relevant to a request made to the court or to another document filed with the court. The person making the statement of fact must sign the affidavit and have it witnessed and notarized by a notary public or the Family Court’s Clerk of the Court.

Art Therapy - a type of play therapy that may appeal to older children more than playing with toys. The choice of color, topic to be featured in the art work, and the story the child may tell about the art work when it is completed helps the child express thoughts and feelings she may not be able to explain otherwise.

Attention Deficit Disorder (ADD) - a group of symptoms believed to be caused by slight abnormalities in the brain. These symptoms include an inappropriate lack of ability to pay attention, such as difficulty with listening to and following directions. Other signs of ADD may be acting on impulse without thought of consequences, being distracted, and often being clumsy. A child or adult with ADD is not necessarily overly active. The symptoms for ADD must always be looked at with an understanding of what is considered average for the child’s particular age group.

Attention Deficit Hyperactivity Disorder (ADHD) - the symptoms for ADHD are the same as those for ADD, but with hyperactivity. ADHD occurs in as many as three percent of children.

Auditory Impairment - hearing loss resulting from problems in any part of the ear or of the hearing center of the brain. Auditory impairment refers to a decrease in the range of hearing, loudness and/or pitch. Hearing loss or deafness may be a birth defect or it may be caused by disease or injury.

Autism - a developmental disorder with symptoms of disturbances of social, language, and thinking skills. A child with autism may avoid interactions with others, have difficulty understanding and expressing language, be extremely resistant to change, and have repetitive, self-stimulating behavior. The features of autism are obvious by 30 months of age. Autism appears to result from brain damage and may be associated with other disorders. It is important to note that some children with mental retardation, psychiatric disorders, sensory deficits (such as vision or hearing impairment), and some rare neurological diseases have autistic-like characteristics but are not autistic.

Behavior Therapy - the treatment approach most often used with developmentally disabled individuals without the verbal skills necessary for talking therapies. The basis of this approach is that inappropriate behaviors are learned and can be unlearned. This approach does not deal with possible underlying conflicts but focuses on the undesirable behavior directly.

Certified Mental Health Counselor - provides individual, group and family counseling (M.A., M.S., M.C., M. Ed.). They must hold a master’s degree and pass a national certification exam.
Commissioner - a constitutional judicial officer who has been appointed by the Governor and confirmed by the Senate. Commissioners serve for four years and have the same authority and powers as a Judge of the Family Court. In general, commissioners hear civil actions involving juvenile delinquency, domestic violence, child custody and visitation. They also have the authority to incarcerate a person who is in contempt of a court order.

Developmental Delay - a term applied to a child age three or younger who is usually more than six months behind other children their same age and sex in one or more of the following areas: 1) thinking, speaking, writing, and understanding language; 2) fine motor skills such as using fingers to pick up things; 3) gross motor skills such as rolling over, crawling, walking; 4) social and emotional skills such as getting along with people; and 5) self-help activities such as feeding and dressing. Generally boys develop more slowly than girls.

Family Court - the State court which decides matters that relate to children and families such as support, custody, neglect, adoption, paternity, visitation and delinquency. It also decides matters related to divorce such as alimony and property division, and issues involved in domestic violence such as protective orders and misdemeanor offenses between family members. Decisions are made by judges, masters, and commissioners. In some cases, the Court has people meet with a court mediator to try to reach an agreement on the matter.

Fetal alcohol effects - a combination of congenital abnormalities (problems a child is born with) that is caused by the mother drinking alcohol during pregnancy. The effects of alcohol can range from a slightly smaller birthweight to the presence of many of the same anomalies present in a child with fetal alcohol syndrome (FAS). Usually the term is used to describe a child who has some, but not all, of the signs of a child with FAS. Research shows that children with fetal alcohol effects may have just as difficult a time functioning and adapting as children with FAS or prenatal exposure to drugs.

Fetal alcohol syndrome (FAS) - a combination of congenital abnormalities that is caused by the mother drinking alcohol during pregnancy. Signs of FAS may include growth deficiency, mental retardation, attention deficit hyperactivity disorder, and motor delays. Children with FAS have certain facial features such as small eyes, extra skin folds, small jaw, flat midface, little or no groove on the upper lip outer surface, thin upper lip, short nose, ear anomalies, and short openings between eyelids.

Immunization - to introduce into the body immune serums or vaccines to prevent or cure disease. Immunity is achieved when the body produces antibodies that defend against the bacteria, virus, or other microorganisms which cause disease. See the immunization chart after question 18 in the Health section to know when certain immunizations need to be given to your grandchild.

Inpatient Hospitalization - admission into a hospital that provides care for a period of time.

Licensed Clinical Social Worker - provides evaluation, diagnosis, referral, individual counseling and group therapy. In Delaware, a Licensed Clinical Social Worker (L.C.S.W.) must hold a master’s degree in social work and complete two years of supervised practice.
Licensed Professional Counselor of Mental Health - provides professional counseling services to individuals, groups and families (L.P.C.M.H.). In Delaware, a licensed professional counselor of mental health must hold a master’s degree and work three full years in a mental health setting with supervision.

Marriage and Family Therapist - focuses on premarital, marital, parent-child and sibling relationships, as well as larger family systems. A certified family therapist must hold a master’s degree with specialized courses and must work in a mental health setting with supervision.

Master - a lawyer who is appointed by the Chief Judge of the Family Court to hear certain types of matters such as child support and child dependency/neglect cases. The Master holds a hearing in a courtroom. After hearing testimony and viewing all the evidence, he or she makes a decision. If a person who is a party in the case does not agree with the Master’s decision, they can request a hearing on the matter before a judge who will hold a hearing and make a final decision.

Medication - prescription or non-prescription medication recommended by a doctor.

Mobility Impairment - the inability of a child with developmental or visual impairments to move about independently. The goal of mobility therapy is to teach the child to move about within familiar environments and how to travel beyond familiar areas.

Occupational therapy (OT) - helps the injured, ill, or disabled child develop and improve so she can help herself as much as possible and learn how to adjust in different behavior and play situations. The occupational therapist works with the young child’s ability to move, to use her senses of taste, smell, feel, hearing and touch, and posture development to try to prevent or lessen the impact of impairment and developmental delay, and promote learning new skills to increase the child’s ability to be as independent as is appropriate for her age.

Outpatient - professional medical treatment not requiring admission to a health care facility.

Partial Hospitalization (also called day treatment or day hospital) - intensive outpatient treatment. The length of stay and number of hours per day or week may vary. The individual does not live at the place he receives treatment.

Pastoral Counselor - a minister or lay person who holds good standing in a recognized denomination or religious faith. She provides counseling based on the theological and psychological dimensions of human problems. A certified pastoral counselor must hold a master’s degree, complete clinical pastoral education and complete a period of supervised practice.

Pervasive Developmental Disorder - A diagnosis sometimes given to a child who has some, but not all, of the symptoms of autism.

Physical Therapy - treatment to prevent harmful movement or ease movement through a program designed for the individual child. The goal may be to develop muscle strength, increase coordination and/or the ability to move more easily. It also may ease pain or help learn new motor skills. Physical therapists use therapeutic exercises and sometimes heat, cold, and water. Therapeutic exercises for some children may include passive exercise in which the therapist moves and stretches the child’s muscles, or the child may actively participate in learning new ways to acquire and control positions and movement.

Play therapy - a method used to help young children work on emotional or psychological conflicts. The child plays freely with a selected group of toys as the therapist observes. Through play the child is able to express thoughts and feelings that he may not be able to talk about or have the ability to explain.

Psychiatric disorder - a severe mental disorder that changes the person’s understanding of what is real and their ability to participate normally with others. A person may show personality changes, loss of emotions, confused ways of thinking, depression, confusion, a decrease in language skills such as talking in a baby manner or in phrases instead of sentences, more fighting behavior then usual, can’t be still, hears things or sees things.

Psychiatric Nurse - a registered professional nurse (M.S.N., B.S.N.) who works in a hospital or clinical setting. In addition to a medical background, he has specialized training or education in the treatment of mental disorders.

Psychiatrist - a medical doctor (M.D., D.O.) who specializes in mental disorders. He can evaluate and diagnose all types of mental disorders, prescribe medication, and provide therapy. In Delaware, a psychiatrist must be licensed to practice medicine and must complete three years of specialty training.

Psychologist - holds a doctoral degree in psychology (Ph.D., Psy.D., Ed.D.). She conducts psychotherapy, evaluates and diagnose mental disorders and conducts psychological testing. Current law in Delaware requires that a psychologist hold a doctoral degree and complete two years of supervised experience.

Self-Help (also called support groups) - while not a substitute for therapy, these groups are seen as an important addition or alternative to the traditional services provided by a mental health professional. Mutual help groups often offer on-going peer support and education that professionals may not be able to provide.

Special Need - any support program or service a child needs beyond what is usually required by a youngster to get an education.

Speech Therapy - treatment designed to help the child develop and maintain the speech and language skills of other children his age, as well as to improve oral motor abilities such as feeding.

Visual Impairment - a lack or loss of vision due to damage to the organs of vision or to the vision centers of the brain. A person is considered legally blind if she has corrected vision of 20/200. That means she can see at 200 feet what ordinarily can be seen at 20 feet or less. She also may see only directly ahead and not to the sides.

DELAWARE HEALTH AND SOCIAL SERVICES MISSION STATEMENT:
To improve the quality of life for Delaware’s citizens by promoting health and well-being, fostering self-sufficiency, and protecting vulnerable populations.
MISSION

The mission of Delaware Health and Social Services’ Division of Services for Aging and Adults with Physical Disabilities is to improve or maintain the quality of life for Delawareans who are at least eighteen years of age with physical disabilities or who are elderly. The Division is committed to the development and delivery of consumer-driven services which maximize independence through individual choice, enable individuals to continue living active and productive lives, and protect those who may be vulnerable and at risk.

OUR VISION
FOR THE 21ST CENTURY

Delaware Health and Social Services’ Division of Services for Aging and Adults with Physical Disabilities, while pursuing its mission to its customers, will move into the 21st century by pursuing a multi-faceted approach to success.

It must also prepare to serve the succeeding generations, whose needs may require uniquely different approaches and resources. Our focus on advocacy, diversity, partnering, technology, and education will enhance our efforts for success in providing quality services to our customers, empowering them for greater independence.
