TANF case closed for at least one month, or until they participate for four consecutive weeks, whichever is longer.  4. Description of the methodology used to calculate the estimated impact of this eligibility change: (attach supporting materials to this form) The methodology compares the actual number of denials and case closures for failure to meet work requirements with the average number of cases which had been closed with a permanent, full-family sanction under the prior policy. (This overstates the impact, since clients can cure sanctions under the current policy, but data on the number of denials that reapply and comply and the sanctions that are cured are not available.) Name of eligibility change: Lifetime time limit Reimposed for Employed Families
Implementation date of eligibility change: May 1, 2011
Description of policy, including the change from prior policy: Under prior policy, Delaware's lifetime limit of 36 months of assistance was suspended for any client who was employed for 30 or more hours a week and was still eligible for an assistance payment. Effective May 1, 2011, the clock on the lifetime limit of 36 months continues to run, regardless of the number of hours worked.
Description of the methodology used to calculate the estimated impact of this eligibility change: (attach supporting materials to this form) Delaware tracks the actual number of cases whose time clocks were previously suspended due to 30 hours of employment and whose case is closed upon reaching 36 months of assistance. (See excel spreadsheet in Part II.)
